

Over 140 years ago (in around 1880) the Heddle family all got together in St Andrews to have their family photo taken. This was their photo:

Afterwards, they each wrote in their diaries about their day.

They might have written about:

- How they felt about getting their picture taken. Was it exciting? Or was it annoying because they had to sit still for so long?
- Why they went to get their photo taken. What will they do with it when they get a copy?
- What they did before or after they got their picture taken. Did they go to work? Or did they go to school?
- What it was like to live in St Andrews when it was such a small town.

Pretend to be one of:

- Matthew Heddle (Dad and Professor at St Andrews University), aged 52

- Mary Jane Heddle (Mum), aged 49

- Catherine Heddle (Daughter), aged 6

- Stuart Heddle (Son), aged 9

in the Heddle family photo and write their diary for them. You can use some of the ideas above to help you.
